

New screens in high-quality EHST from Herbold Meckesheim GmbH

Especially for customers looking for a longer service time of their screens, Herbold Meckesheim GmbH has developed the new screen plates in EHST.

During trial runs at customer sites, we managed to triple the lifetime of screens, with some materials it could even be quintupled. The price-performance ratio is quite impressive.

We would like to point out that

- The brink of our screens is not perforated; the screens have been sealed off against the housing, consequently there is a higher stability against cracks and fractures.

The screens and screen plates in wear-resistant EHST steel are available for the following series.
